THE "THESAURUS OF ERIC DESCRIPTORS (INTERIM)" SUPERSEDES, AND REPRESENTS A REFINEMENT OF, THE "THESAURUS OF ERIC DESCRIPTORS." THE INTERIM ISSUE IS A PRELIMINARY ERIC SYSTEM TOOL AND IS NOT TO BE CONSIDERED A COMPLETE REPRESENTATION OF THE FINAL PRODUCT. THIS REFINEMENT IS THE RESULT OF TWO MAJOR PROJECTS--(1) THE INCORPORATION OF SUGGESTIONS RECEIVED FROM A FIELD EVALUATION AND (2) THE ADAPTATION OF THE PANEL ON EDUCATIONAL TERMINOLOGY (PET) "RULES FOR THESAURUS PREPARATION" PUBLISHED IN OCTOBER 1966. APPLICATION OF THE PET RULES REQUIRED A LARGE NUMBER OF CHANGES IN THE THESAURUS, FOR EXAMPLE, THE APPLICATION OF THE SINGULAR-PLURAL NOUN FORM FOR DESCRIPTORS. SAMPLE THESAURUS ENTRIES ARE INCLUDED FOR DESCRIPTORS, SYNONYMS OR NEAR SYNONYMS, PARENTHETICALLY QUALIFIED TERMS, DESCRIPTORS WITH SCOPE NOTES, AND DESCRIPTOR DISPLAY CROSS-REFERENCES. (TC)

FOREWORD

The Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors (Interim) represents an updating of the Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors: Phase I, dated June 1966 and supersedes that publication. The results of a field evaluation and the addition of new descriptors have increased the usefulness of the Thesaurus.

Accumulations of the Thesaurus, on a monthly basis, are planned through June 1967. Readers are invited to review critically the descriptors. Please submit comments to James L. Eller, ERIC, Bureau of Research, Office of Education, Washington, D.C. 20202.

INTRODUCTION

The Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors (Interim) supersedes and represents a refinement of the Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors: Phase I. This refinement takes the form of two major projects: (1) the incorporation of suggestions received from a field evaluation and (2) the adaptation of the Phase I Thesaurus to conform to the Rules for Thesaurus Preparation released in November 1966.

New descriptors were added to the Phase I Thesaurus through the indexing of Office of Education final reports. Also, as the ERIC clearinghouses begin to index documents for inclusion into the system, additional descriptors will no doubt be entered into the thesaurus. A coordination procedure for entry of new descriptors has been developed along with the Descriptor Justification Form, which is to be used for processing new descriptors.

A first edition of the Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors is planned for June 1967, and should provide a representative sample of clearinghouse-originated descriptors.

Upon the completion of the Phase I Thesaurus, work was begun to strengthen it. Copies were mailed to 300 educators and information specialists for critical evaluation. Comments from these evaluations were extremely helpful in correcting many problems for this interim edition; however, continued effort is necessary to bring remaining problems under control as they are discovered in the indexing of documents, in lexicographic review, and by further recommendations from the field.

Descriptors

Descriptors are technically meaningful terms or short phrases that characterize a document and which may be used as index entries. Descriptors perform a dual function in a storage and retrieval system. First, they permit the indexer to describe the subject elements of a document so that it may be stored in a system for future search and retrieval purposes. Second, they represent the raw material from which a searcher may construct a question for the system to answer. In this sense, the body of descriptors in a system is the communication link between the human operators and users of the system and the system itself. Without a structure to satisfy language, scope, and usage, communication with the system would be impaired.

Function of a Thesaurus

The Office of Education's Panel on Educational Terminology (PET) has defined the function of a thesaurus as follows:

> An information retrieval thesaurus is a term-association list structured to enable indexers and subject analysts to describe the subject information of a document to a desired level of specificity at input, and to permit > searchers to describe in mutually precise terms the information required at output. A thesaurus therefore serves as an authority list and as a device to bring into coincidence the language of documents and the language of questions.

In its simplest terms, then, a thesaurus of descriptors provides the rules of communication necessary to successful operation of an information system. A functional thesaurus is both accurate and logical, and has integrity in relation to the guidelines upon which it has been constructed. The ultimate success or failure of a thesaurus depends on the extent of its usefulness as a communication tool in an information system.

Further Steps in Development

Approximately 300 educators and information specialists throughout the country participated in the evaluation of the Phase I Thesaurus. Each participant was mailed a copy of the Phase I Thesaurus and requested to critically evaluate it. All comments and criticisms from the field evaluations were reviewed and analyzed. Recommendations on the addition of new descriptors could not be accepted, as the Panel on Educational Terminology Rules specifically states that any new terminology must come from documents indexed into the ERIC System. This approach will guarantee that at least one document will be stored for potential retrieval for each descriptor in the thesaurus.

Since informal basic rules were followed in the development of the Phase I Thesaurus, a review of Phase I was necessary to assure compliance to the currently approved rules formulated by the Panel on Educational Terminology (PET). Phase I nonconformance to the PET rules required a large number of changes in the use of the singular-plural noun form for descriptors.

Concurrent to the field evaluation analysis and the adaptation of the Phase I Thesaurus to the PET rules, a number of Education Research Reports were indexed. In the process of indexing these documents, new descriptors were required to provide adequate retrieval of the documents in question. Consequently, a Descriptor Coordination Procedure was developed to provide a systematic approach to new terminology generation and thesaurus updating. The Descriptor Justification Form (DJF), Figure 1, illustrated on the following page is used by indexers to identify candidate descriptors developed in the indexing of a document. Of greatest importance is the justification of the candidate descriptor by reference to "authorities." Authorities are dictionaries, thesauri, and the like selected from the field expressed by the candidate descriptor, i.e., education, sociology, psychology, physics, and the like. As a general practice more than one definition from each authority is required to substantiate the proper use of a candidate descriptor. The indexer is then required to determine necessary cross-references to other descriptors to be used in the display. The objective of this display is primarily to assist future indexers and users to consistently apply and define the descriptor in question. From the indexer, the DJF is transmitted to a lexicographer, who is responsible for checking the authorities used to assure that the most appropriate and precise definitions were applied and that the meaning of the descriptor as found in the document is consistent with existing descriptors. Further checking of the proposed descriptor display is necessary to assure that the hierarchical display is correct. Finally, the reciprocal relationships of the new descriptor must be displayed throughout the thesaurus as appropriate.

Terms and Related Entries [1]

Two types of terms are listed in the thesaurus. Terms selected as descriptors are in boldface capital letters (e.g., OBJECTIVES). These are authoritative terms in that they have been chosen as acceptable for indexing and searching in the ERIC System. Synonyms and near-synonyms of descriptors are printed in small capital letters (e.g., GOALS). The sample display on page XVII directly following this introduction illustrates the arrangement of both types of term entries. The five notations used to structure each type of term are described below.

1/ For thesaurus format guidelines, the Thesaurus of Engineering Terms, compiled by the Engineers' Joint Council, was used as a guide for the Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors: Phase I.

1. Synonyms and near-synonyms of descriptors are always followed by a "USE" entry. This entry directs the thesaurus user to the preferred descriptor that should be used in communicating with the system. No documents are indexed by terms having small capital letters, nor should any attempt be made to use such terms as valid search terms. Synonym entries appear solely to provide as many points of entry to the thesaurus as possible; ideally there should be as many entry points for a given concept as there are ways to describe that concept. The importance of the "USE" entry or relationship extends beyond the clearcut case of synonymy: the entry can represent the relationship to a descriptor of a near-synonym which has a general conceptual similarity, but which is not a true synonym. The user must enter the system with the descriptor denoted under such an entry.

   Example:

GOALS
USE OBJECTIVES

2. The reverse of the "USE" entry is the "Used For" (UF) entry. Such an entry may appear only under a descriptor for which a synonym or near-synonym appears in the thesaurus. The entry tells the user that the descriptor includes the concept represented by the UF entry. The UF entry adds to the user's understanding of the scope of a descriptor which is "used for" other concepts. From another viewpoint, the UF entry provides the user with negative information in telling him that he need not (cannot) attempt his search using the concept listed as UF. The reverse of the example noted above is as follows:

OBJECTIVES
UF GOALS

Three other basic notations for term entries are used in this thesaurus:

NT - Narrower Term

BT - Broader Term

RT - Related Term

3. "Narrower Term" (NT) denotes a hierarchical relationship between the main descriptor entry and a descriptor which belongs to the same class but is on a lower level of the hierarchy - that is, the narrower term is more specific.

Example:

ENROLLMENT
NT LATE SCHOOL ENTRANCE
OPEN ENROLLMENT
STUDENT ENROLLMENT
RT ADMISSION (SCHOOL)
EARLY ADMISSION
ENROLLMENT RATE
ENROLLMENT TRENDS

4. "Broader Term" (BT) is the second hierarchical notation and the reciprocal of the "Narrower Term" notation. A BT entry indicates that the descriptor is of the same class as the main descriptor entry, but that it is on a higher level of hierarchy. The following example of a BT entry is the opposite of the example showing the NT entry given above:

STUDENT ENROLLMENT
UF SCHOOL ENROLLMENT
BT ENROLLMENT
RT STUDENTS

5. The last entry notation, "Related Term" (RT), performs two functions, only one of which is concerned with the scope of the main entry. A term listed as RT clarifies scope, that is, provides further definition of a main descriptor entry. It does this mainly by better describing the context in which the main descriptor entry should be interpreted. The second function of an RT entry is to alert the user to terms other than the main descriptor in which he may be interested, either as an indexer or a searcher. RT entries provide the collateral word relationships in a thesaurus that would not ordinarily be apparent if the user were to think only in terms of the hierarchical scheme.

Two examples of an RT entry are shown here to emphasize that the RT relationship is two-sided:

STUDENT OPINION
BT OPINION
RT STUDENT ATTITUDES
STUDENT REACTION
STUDENTS

STUDENT ATTITUDES
UF PUPIL ATTITUDES
STUDENT FEELINGS
BT ATTITUDES
RT STUDENT BEHAVIOR
STUDENT MOTIVATION
STUDENT OPINION

Every hierarchical and collateral entry has a complementary entry elsewhere in the thesaurus. That is, for every "USE" entry, there is a complementary UF entry; for every NT entry, there is a complementary BT entry; conversely, for every BT entry, there is a complementary NT entry; and for every RT entry, there is a complementary RT entry.

The order in which the four notations appear under a descriptor, when appropriate, is as follows:

UF - Used For

NT - Narrower Term

BT - Broader Term

RT - Related Term

Guidelines

Parenthetical Qualifiers. A number of terms in this thesaurus are followed by a parenthetical word or words. The purpose of these parenthetical qualifying expressions is not to define terms, but rather to clarify homographs and ambiguities in word meaning and usage. Whenever a parenthetical qualifier is used, it appears as an integral part of the descriptor in question, and is carried with that descriptor throughout all of its hierarchical and collateral relationships with other descriptors in the thesaurus.

Example:

GRADES (SCHOLASTIC)

Scope Notes. Occasionally, descriptors have been selected which, because of their broad usage in the language or because of their special usage in fields other than education, require a brief statement of restricted usage. In such cases, a scope note has been provided directly beneath the main descriptor entry. This is not intended as a formal definition, and is not considered to be an integral part of the descriptor. Thus it is not carried with the descriptor itself to other locations in the thesaurus where the descriptor is listed in its relationships. The note appears only where the descriptor has its main entry. An example of this type of entry is the term "ACCELERATION," which has a particular meaning in the field of education, but may have other meanings in the fields of engineering and physics. To prevent ambiguity as to what is meant by the term "ACCELERATION" in this thesaurus, a scope note has been provided:

Example:

ACCELERATION
(THE PROCESS OF PROGRESSING THROUGH THE SCHOOL GRADES AT A RATE FASTER THAN THAT OF THE AVERAGE CHILD)

Problems

Some of the problems encountered in the development of this thesaurus reflect directly upon the problems of educational language, which is, relatively speaking, a "soft" language. By contrast, much of the subject matter of the physical sciences and engineering is more refined, lending itself to an accepted interpretation of language and word usage to an extent not existent in the social sciences. Other problems reflect upon the difficulties inherent in constructing a thesaurus in any subject area.

Term Construction. In most coordinate indexing schemes, one objective is to break down the language or terminology into its simplest components while still retaining definition. In many information systems, this is reflected in a thesaurus comprised mostly of single-word terms. In this thesaurus, however, there is an abundance of compound (multiword) terms. This can be explained in terms of the educational process itself. Basically, this process involves students, teachers, and an educational environment; and the events which occur during this process can often be equally applicable to either the students, the teachers, or the environment. In a coordinate indexing system, it is almost impossible to distinguish the source of an action and the recipient of an action without defining each of them in the terminology of the system. Thus, if there is a document dealing with "the effect of the teacher on the attitudes of students," according to an ideal coordinate indexing scheme it should be possible to index such a document by coordinating the concepts of "teachers," "students," and "attitudes." However, on searching this system, how is one to know whether he is retrieving documents which deal with "student attitudes" or "teacher attitudes"? The only apparent way these two concepts can be distinguished is to index the document by the concepts "student attitudes" and "teachers." This involves the addition of the term "student" to the term "attitudes" in order to avoid confusion. In an environment as complex and highly specific as that presented by the educational process, this type of compounding ("binding") of terms is unavoidable.

This is a particularly vexing problem in a subject field described in large part by compound terminology. Multiword concepts offer a greater possibility of disagreement and inconsistency than do single-word concepts simply because of the combinations possible in the case of the multiword concepts. An example of this situation arose in the use of "student" and "pupil" in multiword terms. In this thesaurus, the concept "student" was adopted to represent the person receiving education. The concept "pupil" by itself or in compound terms was identified as synonymous with the concept "student." Therefore, when the term "pupil distribution" occurred in indexing, it became synonymous with "STUDENT DISTRIBUTION," for the purpose of maintaining consistency with the basic decision to select "student" as the preferred descriptor form.

Beyond the considerations of the logic of such a system, there is the question of how people think and express themselves in the language of the subject field. In developing this thesaurus, every attention was given to using natural language that would be meaningful and recognizable to thesaurus users. Much of the language of education consists of compound terminology, which has been preserved here for clarity and utility.

Organizational Terminology. A number of terms in this thesaurus may not be used frequently by indexers and users, but they still have value in organizing terminology. A prime example of such a term is "EDUCATION." It is highly unlikely that the word "EDUCATION" will often be used as either an index term or a search term for a system designed to organize educational research information. From another pcint of view, however, the inclusion of the term "EDUCATION" in this thesaurus permits the organization of specific types of education as well as the organization of terms which are intimately associated with the concept of education.

Terms Appearing in Adjective Form. A number of terms in the literature appear in the thesaurus as adjectives rather than nouns. The term "DISADVANTAGED," is a good example of this type of term. These terms, though they appear in the thesaurus in adjectival form, are to be considered as nouns describing people. For instance, the descriptor "DISADVANTAGED" means "disadvantaged people"; the descriptor "BLIND" means "blind people." With the exception of these terms which refer to people, the terminology in this thesaurus is entirely in the noun form.

Word Meanings. A problem exists in the field of education concerning the interpretation of terms which can mean either a course subject or a field of knowledge. Such terms as "BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES," "MATHEMATICS," and "PSYCHOLOGY" are examples. The terms which are related to "MATHEMATICS" as a subject of study are not necessarily the terms which are related to "MATHEMATICS" as a field of knowledge or a profession. No attempt has been made to distinguish between the two meanings in this thesaurus, but the problem should be recognized by reviewers. Eventually it will require attention and solution as further development of terminology takes place.
